AMIC-Group, Inc., a leader in homeland security exercise, training and development based in Albany, New York, announced today that they are hosting a one-day seminar titled, “Chemical Industry Security”. This seminar is designed to educate: first responders; government officials/policy makers; insurance and lending specialists and those working with chemicals.

“This event will provide an important understanding of the threats facing us in today’s world,” said Lt. Colonel Robert Domenici (ret), President of AMIC-Group. “In addition participants will be introduced to state-of-the-art detection, deterrence and prevention tools and techniques that are available.”

The seminar is to be held Thursday, April 28, 2005 in Schenectady, New York at Union College in cooperation with Schenectady County Community College and Shaw Environmental and Infrastructure, Inc.

Speakers scheduled to speak at the event are NYS Senator Michael A. Balboni, Chair of the Senate committee on Veterans, Homeland Security and Military Affairs; Colonel Edward Badolato (Ret), USMC, currently Executive Vice President of Shaw Homeland Security; Professor Yonah Alexander of the Potomac Institutes International Center for Terrorism Studies; Major Jody Ankabrandt; and Captain Fred J. Evans III, Senior Associate at the U.S. Merchant Marine Academy.

According to Domenici issues the following issues are to be addressed at the seminar: detection; deterrence; and prevention. In addition, the seminar will also focus on response and recovery from real threats including: Security Challenges and Associated Regulatory/Legislative Issues to the Chemical Industry; Security Actions taken by Industry Response and Contingency Planning for Real Incidents; and Security Considerations with regard to the Transportation Industry.

The event is open to the press, for more information or to register for the seminar please contact AMIC Group at (518) 482-3955 or visit www.shaw.snrinternet.com.
